

About the Filmmaker:

Dewayne Rudd is a former U. S. Air Force test pilot and U-2 spy pilot. The Air Force selected him to test the B-2 Advanced Technology Bomber after he successfully completed over fifty classified U-2 missions. Dewayne has a Bachelor of Science degree in Aerospace Engineering from West Virginia University and Master of Arts degree in Management from Central Michigan University. He now flies for United Parcel Service as an Airbus 300 Captain.

His award-winning documentary, "They Are Still There," focuses on several characters from his first book "Fading Away at Wilmore" which offers readers a unique view of this tragic disease from a son's perspective.

Dewayne has also written articles on the subject of dementia for a national magazine. Through the film and his book, Dewayne shares both the heartbreak and hope he felt in watching his father and other military veterans struggle with dementia.

Dewayne is single and lives in Louisville, Kentucky. He is a member of one of the nation's largest churches, Southeast Christian Church.
